E. Berlin Bans U.S. Official

Reds Counter Prior Boycott By West

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. command brushed off Communist orders today banning the U.S. commandant, Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, from Red-ruled East Berlin.

A U.S. spokesman said the American commandant has no intention of entering the Soviet sector unless his civilian aides can go with him without being forced to show identification cards.

The East Germans announced they were shutting the gate on Gen. Watson at the request of the Soviets. This was confirmed by U.S. authorities in a telephone call to Soviet headquarters in Karlshorst, suburban East Berlin. The move was in retaliation for the American boycott against Col. Andrei I. Solovyev, the Soviet commandant. He was barred from the U.S. sector two months ago after East German guards stopped Gen. Watson and demanded two aides with him show identification papers.

The United States does not recognize the East German regime and contends that the Soviets are responsible for regulating traffic to and from East Berlin.

This was underscored by an American spokesman's statement, "The problem with regard to the movement of the two commandants to each other's sectors continues to remain a matter for resolution between the two commandants."

A U.S. Army staff car was held up for 40 minutes by East German border police this morning, but then was waved on. Western officials did not link the incident with the ban on Gen. Watson. They suggested it might have

Pilot That Bombed Palace Gets Asylum

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Cambodia gave political asylum today to a South Vietnamese fighter pilot who flew to safety here after attacking President Ngo Dinh Diem's palace in Saigon.

Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, called the attack on Diem "God's punishment" and denied the South Vietnamese government's extradition request for the pilot, Nguyen Van Cu, 25.

The Cambodian action seemed certain to further irritate relations already severely strained by repeated border incidents growing out of South Vietnamese war against Communist guerrillas. Diem's government has accused Sihanouk of allowing the rebel Viet Cong to operate from Cambodian territory. Neutralist Cambodia has rejected these charges and in turn accused South Vietnamese troops and planes of frequently violating Cambodian territory.

Diem escaped injury in the attack.

Peaks To Be Lower Than Expected

Families Flee As Ohio River Swells

By The Associated Press
Evacuation of homes in the Ohio River towns from Portsmouth downriver moved faster Friday before the steady rise of the rain-swollen river.

Although the river was expected to hit peaks slightly lower than earlier estimated, troubles piled up after the Ohio spilled over into downtown community streets.

The village of Moscow had double trouble — high water reached half the homes in town and cut off access via U.S. 52.

But the only other road into Moscow — Ohio 743 — was blocked by a big landslide that state highway engineers said carried away part of the roadbed.

Highway workers planned to cut a temporary road in, and soldiers from the Nike missile facility at Felicity said they would bring to Moscow any help, physicians or supplies needed.

The Red Cross extended its network of temporary shelters, chiefly in school houses where classes had been suspended until the river went down again.

Main Street Flooded

Main Street at Manchester had four feet of water Thursday with another two feet expected. Residents and businesses had begun pulling out of low-lying areas Wednesday.

New Richmond, which often is hit by high water, saw its merchants and about 100 families move to higher ground, and there was a long list of householders waiting for trucks available to help them move.

The rise of the Ohio at Portsmouth eased Thursday to less than a tenth of a foot hourly, and with a 60 foot crest expected Saturday, two feet lower than anticipated, city workers decided to halt erection of a flood gate at the city's second street.

The high water caused similar troubles on both sides of the swollen river — at Aberdeen, Ripley and Higgsport, Ohio, at Dayton, Augusta and Melbourne, Ky.

Clear skies and cold weather were expected to help ease the flood threat.

The Weather Bureau at Cincinnati said Thursday night no rain was in prospect at least through late Saturday.

The Red Cross at Cincinnati reported fewer calls for aid Thursday after a rush of emergencies in low-lying areas hit first when the river rises.

The high water halted work on two high-level dams — at Markland, Ind., and the Meldahl facility 15 miles upriver from New Richmond.

The U.S. Corps of Engineers reported Thursday night the high water had swept a $200,000 pump-dredge over a cofferdam at the Meldahl site, and the only way to retrieve it would be to cut it in pieces and tow in to the Kentucky shore.

The river also menaced two cranes valued at $250,000 at the Markland site.

Little change was expected from these crest predictions for the Ohio River from Portsmouth to Markland:

Portsmouth, Ohio — A crest of 60 feet at 7 a.m. Saturday, 10 feet over flood stage.

Maysville, Ky. — A crest of 61 feet at 6 p.m. Saturday, 11 feet over flood stage.

Chilo, Ohio — A crest at 58 feet at 4 a.m. Sunday, 9 feet over flood stage.

Cincinnati — A crest at 61.5 feet at 7 a.m. Sunday, 8.5 feet over flood stage.

Markland, Ind. — A crest at 59 feet at 10 p.m. Sunday, 11 feet over flood stage.

Frost Dug In Deep Here This Winter

Winter's solid December-to-March grip on the district put 20 inches of frost in the ground — an unusual condition. Weather Observer Edwin Copeland pointed out today in his monthly weather report.

Commenting on February conditions in particular, he said it is unusual for the frost to stay in the ground for that long a period because "we usually have a January thaw."

He added that "due to these conditions and below normal temperatures in January and February, the month of March should have above average temperatures. Copeland said 'it is hard to say how much damage has been done to winter seed crops and fruit trees at this time.'"

Last month was about average in temperature and snowfall, but above average in rainfall.

Precipitation measured 3.18 inches compared to 2.74 inches in February last year and the normal of 2.25. Temperatures last month averaged 28 degrees which was close to the 28.9 average for February.

Snowfall last month measured 8 inches—exactly normal. In February, 1961, snow amounted to 9.5 inches.

City Awaits Approval Of Overpass Plans

Approval of engineering plans for the proposed $1.3 million railroad overpass project on W. State St. from the Ohio Highway Department and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads is still being awaited by city officials.

The plans were completed by the Melvin Rackoff Associates of Columbus and sent to the highway department about two weeks ago. The plans must be approved before the project can be advertised.

Hopes are that construction of the overpass can be begun this summer. The city's estimated share of the project is $65,000 and would be paid for out of the income tax capital improvements fund. Federal funds would finance most of the project, with the Pennsylvania Railroad also participating.

Election Board Reorganizes

Stacey, O'Hanlon Renamed to Posts

Carl L. Stacey of Columbiana, Democrat, was elected to a new term as chairman of the County Election Board at the biennial reorganization meeting Thursday afternoon.

The board also returned Frank R. O'Hanlon of East Liverpool, Republican, to the clerk's post he has held since 1937. Mrs. Hilis Connor of East Liverpool, deputy clerk, and Miss Rebecca Resnick of East Liverpool, assistant clerk, also were returned. Mrs. Connor is a Democrat and Miss Resnick is a Republican.

The reorganization followed the reappointment of Don R. Gosney of Columbiana and Atty. James L. McSweeney of Wellsville, Republican, to new four-year terms on the board. The appointments were made by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown on recommendation of the Democratic and Republican county executive committees. The new terms began yesterday.

The fourth member of the board is Atty. Charles A. Pike of Lisbon, Republican. Atty. Pike and Stacey are holdover members.

The state law requires that the chairman and the clerk must be of opposite political parties. The reorganization was held at a luncheon meeting at the Travelers Hotel in East Liverpool.

The board also discussed proofs on ballots for the May 8 primaries which had been submitted by the Wellsville Publishing Co., the printing contractor. No special issues ballots will be combined, the board decided.

That means that each of the 10 special questions and issues will

Astronaut Glenn Will Attend U.N. Session

NEW YORK (AP) — John H. Glenn Jr., the blastoff of this city's wildest hero welcome still echoing in his ears, visits United Nations headquarters today.

Among those accompanying Glenn are Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the U.N.

The visit was by special invitation of U.N. Secretary-General U Thant. The hour-and-a-half tour includes an informal session with delegates on the 28-nation U.N. committee on the peaceful uses of outer space.

Glenn, a down-to-earth gentleman except when he is in his space suit, was visibly overwhelmed by the outpouring of an estimated four million New Yorkers greeting him on his first day here.

Tragedy also took the stage on Glenn Day as 95 persons perished when an airliner plunged into Jamaica Bay after takeoff from Idlewild Airport. It was this nation's worst plane crash involving a single commercial aircraft.

Probe Into Cause of Plane Crash In New York Continues

NEW YORK (AP)—What failure of man or machine caused an American Airlines Astro-Jet to plunge with power-dive fury to a splintering disaster in the shallow waters of Jamaica Bay?

The answer to this grim question was still a mystery today. And top Federal Aviation Agency investigators indicated it might remain a mystery for as long as a year.

The Boeing 707 jet—especially adapted for speedier takeoffs from airports surrounded by residential areas—carried 95 persons to death and exploded less than two minutes after it had taken off from Idlewild Airport at 10:07 a.m. Thursday. It was bound for Los Angeles.

It was the nation's worst air disaster involving a single aircraft, topping the toll of the crash of a Trans World Airlines Constellation in Chicago last Sept. 1 in which 78 lost their lives. Worst air disaster was a two-plane collision over New York in 1960 that claimed 134 lives.

Will Make New A-Ban Proposal To Khrushchev

Soviet Reversal Of Inspection Stand Demanded by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is expected to announce tonight that the United States will resume testing nuclear weapons in the atmosphere next month unless the Soviet Union agrees quickly to a reliable nuclear test ban treaty.

The long-awaited announcement of the President's decision on new U.S. air tests, will be carried across the nation by network radio and television and to the world by the Voice of America.

The White House announced only that Kennedy will speak at 7 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on the subject of nuclear testing and disarmament. However, according to reliable advance indications he will make a last-chance bid to the Soviet Union to join in a nuclear test ban treaty, backed by strong international inspection, which could make further testing unnecessary.

Authoritative informants said that barring some radical and unexpected change in the nuclear test situation Kennedy was resolved to go ahead with the test series for which preparations began about two months ago.

Would Start In April

These informants declared, however, that the tests would not start until April. In the meantime the disarmament negotiations are scheduled to get under way at Geneva on March 14 and the United States and Britain are seeking a preliminary foreign ministers meeting with the Soviet Union at which the nuclear test issue would be discussed.

From the timing of these developments it is obvious authorities

Mt. Union to Hold Line On Tuition Costs Next Term

ALLIANCE — Contrary to the number of colleges and universities which have found it necessary, Mount Union College is holding to its present tuition costs.

President Carl C. Bracy, has reported there will be no increase in tuition from the present $500 per semester.

However, there will be some increases in room costs for the 1962-63 school-year, according to Dr. Bracy.

The present $95 room cost per semester at the Student Union, Lamb House, and Hopkins House will go to $100 while East Hall will increase from $95 to $110.

Room costs per semester at Elliott and Miller Halls will go from $115 to $125 and at King Hall from $140 to $150.

The cost for McMaster Hall will remain at $150 per semester — the same room cost as for the new women's dormitory, now under construction to be completed by the start of the school-year.

The new room rates were brought about by a need for a more realistic assessment of the cost of housing students.

Seizes Power In Bloodless Coup

Burma Taken Over By Military Force

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burma's defense chief Gen. Ne Win seized power today for the second time in 3½ years as the Burmese army took over the country in a bloodless coup that caused no public excitement.

Prime Minister U Nu and other members of his government were placed under arrest and the nation's Parliament suspended as the army seized strategic communications, transportation and security points throughout the country.

An army source said about 10,000 troops and 30 tanks took up posts at key points throughout the capital and blocked all main roads leading in and out of Rangoon. Heavily armed troops backed by tanks ringed Rangoon Airport. All flights in and out of Burma were canceled.

Citizens Unperturbed

In Rangoon, however, there were no troops on the streets and city dwellers went about their business seemingly unperturbed by the events. A large concentration of soldiers took station at the central police station in the heart of the city and smaller concentrations were seen at all other police stations.

Win declared in a radio broadcast appealing for calm that the army had acted to halt a vastly deteriorating situation and to save the nation from disintegration.

What motivated the staunchly anti-Communist general's action was not immediately clear. But the coup coincided with growing opposition to a government plan to nationalize Burma's private import trade and a rise in strength of the extreme left-wing of the country's ruling party.

The nationalization plan had been scheduled to go into force

Thursday. The government had claimed that foreign interests were gaining a stranglehold on the nation's economy, and that many Burmese firms had been transferring their import licenses to foreign companies.

The 2,500 private traders affected by the nationalization and a number of politicians fought bitterly against the government bill, charging that it was a long

Hoffmaster Farm Blaze Loss Heavy

Damage estimates running into thousands of dollars are being totaled up today from the fire at the Lowell Hoffmaster farm on the Ellsworth Rd., north of Salem, late Thursday morning.

Destroyed were a large barn, a two-story machine shed, several pieces of farm machinery, a large amount of hay and grain and four young dairy heifers.

A herd of about 40 dairy cattle were led to safety from the burning barn.

Cause of the fire has not been definitely determined, but it is known that it broke out upstairs in the barn where hay and grain were stored. There was no one in the barn when the fire started.

Machinery destroyed included a tractor, grain drill, fertilizer spreader, hay conditioner and bail elevator. All of the machinery had been stored in the large barn. Smaller equipment and tools were stored in the machine shed which was destroyed.

The buildings and contents were partially insured.

Salem firemen were called at 11 a.m. and were first to arrive at the scene. Volunteer depart-

50,000 Expected To Greet Astronaut

New Concord Set For Glenn's Arrival

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—This little Eastern Ohio village today put the finishing touches on the biggest celebration in its history for the arrival of its and the nation's favorite son—astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

The crowd won't come near the millions who greeted the Marine lieutenant colonel in New York Thursday, but if there was a way to calculate the number of people per square yard the New Concord celebration probably will be greater.

Highway Patrol officials expect between 35,000 and 50,000 persons to pour into this little village of 2,127 for the celebration Saturday.

Just when Glenn and his family, including his father and mother, will arrive has not been set definitely. However, it is believed the group will fly into Zanesville Airport, 16 miles west of here, about 11 a.m. It is believed Glenn will leave to return to Washington about 4:30 p.m.

In the 5½ hours, Ohioans will attempt to cram in all of the welcomes, the celebrations, the honoring and the hand-shaking which could span weeks.

And Ohioans aren't the only ones trying to get in on the act. "The state of Washington wanted to fly a float here for the parade," Mayor J. K. Taylor said, but he explained that because of the size of the village no floats will be permitted. "We could have had 250 bands," the mayor said, "if all offers from Ohio and neighboring states had been accepted. If we let everyone enter who wanted to, the parade would have extended all the way from here to Zanesville."

Instead the parade, which will follow a luncheon with state, local and Muskingum College officials, will consist of four marching bands, four color guards and 20 automobiles.

As it is, the procession will cover a couple of residential streets and a good portion of the nearly mile-long main street—the nation-spanning U.S. 40.

After the parade, the activities will switch to Muskingum College where Glenn went to school for three years. Among those to pay tribute to the astronaut in the college gymnasium will be Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. There, only about 3,000 persons will be permitted to take part because of the limited space available.

In the rush to get ready, the town fathers have not neglected to replace an out-dated display of pride.

Upon entering New Concord a huge billboard now proclaims the town the home of "The first American to orbit 'The Earth.'" The old one merely listed Glenn as a Mercury "space flight candidate."

Government Intrudes In Collective Bargaining

They've Just Done It Again

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's like pulling a string. Labor and industry leaders throw up their hands in horror at mention of government intrusion in collective bargaining.

They've just done it again, this time with Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg.

But when they get in a jam—particularly when both sides are feeling the effect of a strike—there's less horror and more realism and the government somehow is welcome to stick its nose in.

In modern times few steel contracts have been signed without government intercession of some kind.

The record-breaking 116-day steel strike of 1959 was halted by the Taft-Hartley law's injunction and finally settled after Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell moved in with recommendations.

In fact, before they got into the picture, David J. McDonald, head of the Steelworkers' Union, asked for recommendations by the government.

For most of 1959 President Eisenhower had tried to follow a hands-off policy. Even when the strike started he wouldn't try to stop it with the only weapon he had—an injunction. He said there was no emergency.

He learned differently as the strike continued and the economy began to suffer. In the end he used the injunction and sent in Mitchell and Nixon.

Nevertheless a speech a week ago by Goldberg brought protests from AFL-CIO President George Meany and steel industry people. They interpreted what he said as government intervention in collective bargaining.

It would mean that but in only a mild way compared with what would be complete intervention if Congress ever approved, such as price and wage controls and compulsory arbitration. Goldberg said he's against those instruments.

IT'S PAINLESS — Sandra Ingrassano demonstrates new device in Chicago capable of making a complete dental X-ray in only one operation.

What he said was that when labor and management negotiate a new contract they must, in addition to their own interests, consider the general welfare. For example:

A sharp price increase, resulting from sharp wage increases, could begin an inflationary spiral. A strike could trigger a recession. And a work stoppage in a vital industry could affect national defense.

Goldberg made two main points:

1. Before a labor-management failure to work out a settlement reaches the strike stage, the government should publish statistics on the industry so the public can understand what the issues really are and put pressure on both sides to get together.

In the past the government has waited until a strike started to make public the statistics.

2. The government should provide "guidelines" to both sides to make sure their settlement is in the public interest. He said this doesn't mean imposing settlements. But he indicated that in some cases the government should suggest what the settlements should be.

This can be translated into meaning that the government—just as it did in the 1959 strike—make recommendations. But, big or little, the government has been intruding for years.

In 1959—although the steel contract expired June 30—the two sides didn't start negotiating until May. After a little more than two months of the strike started, even though Eisenhower pleaded for the negotiations to continue.

This year the contract expires June 30. But this time President Kennedy and Goldberg very early began putting pressure on both sides to start negotiating quickly. They did, on Feb. 15.

Kennedy himself in the 1960 campaign said the government should make the statistics known early in a big labor tussle. The Democratic platform that year said the same thing.

Kennedy in 1959, after watching the steel strike drag on for months and brought to halt finally only by government injunction, said a president should be given more alternatives by Congress than the injunction.

This month Goldberg said the administration — although perhaps not this year — would ask Congress for more flexible weapons in labor disputes.

THIS LITTLE BEAR WENT TO MARKET

A "bear" is one who thinks the market is going down. A "bull" thinks contrarywise and may have just as much right to his opinion. It's largely a matter of judgment.

And judgment plays a major role when it comes to investing your dollars

Today, more and more people are turning to Investment Companies because the handling of other peoples' funds is their business — because professional judgment guides their operations.

Questions and Answers

Q—Can you settle a family argument of long duration? I am fond of raw steak sandwiches, usually called steak tartar. My wife insists they are unsafe and unhygienic. I've eaten them for years with nothing but enjoyment. What's your opinion?

A—Better listen to the little woman. The Public Health Service examined 400 specimens of raw beef and raw pork as purchased from retail meat markets. Some 4 per cent of the pork and 1 per cent of the beef numbers of paratyphoid bacilli (salmonellae) to produce significant human infection.

Although unproven, the source of the salmonellae was thought to be food handlers somewhere along the line. How, if you've eaten steak tartar with "nothing but enjoyment" over the years, you have been just lucky.

Some day you're going to run into a family of salmonellae who have your name and number in their appointment book. When that day comes, you'll wish you had listened.

Q—My daughter is to be married in a few months when her fiancé returns from overseas service. Because he is to be re-assigned to what may be a dangerous mission, she wants to take pills to prevent pregnancy. Are these pills safe?

A—In general the answer is "Yes." But there are these facts to be remembered: (1) They have been used too recently to learn of distant disturbance, both as regards mother and child; (2) Enlargements of preexisting fibroid tumors of the uterus have been noted in quite a few women, but none have developed characteristics of malignancy; (3) In a few instances where the pills have been used unsuccessfully, female children have been born with male characteristics (heavy growth of body and facial hair etc.); and (4) a fair per cent of women suffer from nausea.

These are the facts as I know them. I suggest that your daughter and her fiancé consider them and after consultation with their doctor and their religious adviser reach a decision best suited to their situation.

Q—Isn't it better to take insulin for diabetes than have to be bothered with diet?

A—No. And for the following reason. If insulin is given, either to a diabetic or a normal person, the cells that secrete insulin (beta cells of pancreatic islets) lie down on the job. In experimental animals, for example, they lose their granules and their re-active zinc, suggesting depression of functional activity.

In a way, it's the sort of reaction you'd notice in your leg muscles if you used a crutch or a wheel chair instead of standing on your own two feet and walking about. It is true that after the insulin crutch is discarded, but it's the kind of monkeying with the machinery that no sensible physician would advise. So "bother with diet" for a while and pretty soon it will be like second nature.

Miss Peterson said she was talking with a friend about his tonsillectomy and was holding her tongue down with the fork handle when "I got to laughing and it (the fork) just went down." The fork was removed without any difficulties.

News of Interest to Farmers

Polled Hereford Show

For the first time the Buckeye Polled Hereford Assn. will hold its annual Spring show and sale at the Ohio State Fairground in Columbus.

March 16 and 17 will mark the 19th sale since their humble beginning in a tent at the B & O Railroad Yards at Zanesville. It was moved from there in 1945 to the Muskingum County Fairgrounds in Zanesville and for the past several years has been held in Springfield.

Farm—Orama Date Set

Farm—Orama, the nation's second largest farm action show, will be held at the Wilmington College memorial farm next Sept. 27-29.

This will be the 4th annual Farm—Orama exposition and the second year at the college farm, with the first two exhibitions being held at Richmond.

Feed Grain Program

How much is it worth to a farmer to have a sure income from part of his land this year? That is something farmers will want to consider in deciding whether to sign up for the 1962 Feed Grain Program, according to Dr. Wallace Barr, Ohio State University extension economist.

By signing up to take part of their land out of feed grain production, farmers are assured income from that land, Dr. Barr says, and they won't have to worry about drought, hail, too much rain, or possible insect and disease damage to crops normally grown on that land.

Besides reduced risk, farmers will want to analyze many other factors before deciding whether or not to sign up for the program, according to the economist.

How will participation affect net farm income? Will participation give more time for doing a better job on the rest of the farm, or to do some custom work for neighbors? If farmers divert some land to conservation uses, will this have any long-range effects on their farm operations?

Dr. Barr suggests farmers get in touch with their ASCS offices to obtain base acreages and payment rates for their farms, then figure the effects of the program in terms of their own situations.

An Extension leaflet, "1962 Feed Grain Program," is available from county extension offices. It includes a sample budget form that farmers may use in making their decisions.

Deadline for signing up for the Feed Grain Program is March 30.

Lacking a Better Explanation

Naturally, the United States will not agree the Geneva disarmament conference. That is what Russia wants, so it must be resisted.

The form of insanity in which the victim to a summit conference in connection with a diplomatic technique.

The Soviet Union is still its best-known practitioner, but the idea is catching on, under the rule that the only way to beat the Russians is at their own game. If they resist every suggestion, then the Free World pacemakers must resist every suggestion. If they side Russia, then the Free World should refuse to let people read things written outside Russia.

If they still refuse to permit inspection as part of a disarmament agreement, however, the Free World can depart from the script and invite inspection. Would that alter the Kremlin's policy of obstinacy?

Probably not. Lacking a better explanation, the Free World must assume that the secret the Soviet Union needs to keep from armament inspectors is not how strong it is but how weak it is.

IT COULD NOT hope to be as strong—ever—as the dark forebodings of the Free World's darkest foreboders. They have believed at various times Russia had more of everything than everybody else combined, which is piling it on extra heavy for a country that needed so much U. S. assistance to wear out the German invaders after 1941.

Secrecy has been a potent weapon for the Soviet Union ever since the end of World War II. The Kremlin has been able to shape policy by means of the outside world's speculation about Russian military strength.

This would be changed if a disarmament agreement containing an arrangement for full inspection could be reached. Whereas the United States has been struggling to reveal its strength so all potential opponents may know better than to risk an attack, the Soviet Union has been struggling to conceal its weakness so all potential victims may be afraid to offend the Kremlin.

UNTIL A BETTER explanation can be offered, this is the only explanation that makes sense.

The Russians are experts in psychological warfare—the world's best. They are using their expertise to keep hidden what they do not want revealed—their weakness.

They fear attack. Their doctrine teaches that attack is to be expected as the non-Communist world's last spasm before the death of capitalism.

If they were as strong as they are believed to be by those who use them as 20th century bogeymen insist they are, they would invite full and free international inspection.

Special Diet For a Golden Goose

The most overworked advice in the United States is: Don't kill the goose that lays the golden eggs.

It's negative advice. It should be changed to positive. Like this:

Encourage the goose that lays the golden eggs because the old girl can do better. United States News & World Report asked a number of businessmen what they would do if they were put in charge of the golden goose. They agreed on a prescription for fattening it up in America.

They borrowed their ideas, of all places, from Europe, whose high rate of economic growth and employment makes it the envy of U. S. businessmen. If they could persuade their government to be kind to the golden goose that pays its expenses, these are the things businessmen would recommend:

1. Revise tax laws to encourage job-making in the United States, through more capital investment in productive enterprise. European countries use taxation to stimulate higher profits, whereas business-baiters in the United States have been using tax laws to cripple profit-making.
2. Modify the government policy that makes it almost impossible for a labor union to do anything wrong and nearly impossible for a business enterprise to do anything right. This would include a sweeping revision of antitrust laws, to bring them up to date. They were passed two generations ago.

3. Trim the claws of unfriendly regulatory agencies.

4. Create a business climate in government that makes it possible for a businessman to go to Washington without feeling he has sneaked into the enemy camp.

5. Do everything possible to protect the soundness of the dollar.

6. Get rid of the absurd notion that it is possible for the United States to have more leisure time and maintain a faster rate of growth at the same time.

These six ingredients for a golden goose's diet are not exotic. All of them could be grown at home. The United States, which used to be the envy of Europe, now could catch up to its Old World cousins merely by following their good example and taking care of its golden goose.

All the Typewriters Are Tied

To imagine what can happen to August Heckscher, newly named culture coordinator on the White House staff, is to invite bad dreams.

Sooner or later some ranting politician who thinks he is the spiritual heir of a terbaccer-chawin', gallus-snappin' rough-hewn old-fashioned, unreconstructed frontiersman will catch this Mr. Heckscher amidship with the flat of a double-bitted ax and knock him into the string section of a grand pianer, yes-siree bob.

There's only one thing comforting to be thought of.

Mr. Heckscher expects to get what he is certain to get from horny-handed red-necks who carry on the rough-and-ready tradition of Andy Jackson while toggled out in black silk suits, custom tailored shirts, Italian shoes and fortified with carbonated branch water and bonded moonshine. He has been around.

His current employment is as director of the Twentieth Century Fund, a post he will hang on to in case the anti-culture crowd ride him out of Washington on a rail. Besides being a scholar, he was a wartime coordinator of information, worked with the Office of Strategic Services in North Africa and was a member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations conference in San Francisco in 1945.

But the principal thing he has been, along with writing, teaching and philosophizing, is an editorial writer for the New York Herald Tribune. This ties the typewriters of other editorial writers, among whom are many spiritual heirs of terbaccer-chawin', gallus-snappin' rough-hewn, old-fashioned unreconstructed frontiersmen—or who work for newspapers of the same spiritual persuasion.

Professional courtesy prompts us to wish August Heckscher, first U. S. cultural coordinator, the best of everything and to warn him to keep a horse saddled and the saddlebags filled with survival biscuits. Maybe that pony, "Macaroni," that pulled Caroline in the sleigh, would do. The cultural coordinator is going to have an office in the White House and no one would notice a tall Yale scholar making his getaway on a pony.

It will be an everyday occurrence from now on. People in Washington will say, "They're after Heckscher again—the same old lynch mob."

A bouquet in the front room sometimes reminds men of the garden work the good wife finally nagged them into doing.

Income tax time is when hubby can work late at the office and mean it.

Once Over

And Gallant Unafraid!"
I see two figures out in front
Who first got off the ground:
The Brothers Wright from Kitty Hawk
Now smiling and spellbound!

II
Less than 300 yards they flew
No three-time global exploit, but
It was the start, at that.
There's the Wiley Post who stirred the world

MacCready and Dick Byrd!

Ride with you, Glenn today.
There's Lindy, now a kid again,
His "crate" returned anew—
Some "snacks," his courage and his God

To help as they helped you.
The great explorers of the past,
Each in a dauntless role,
Rode with you thrice around the earth

To fortify your soul.
"The bunk" I hear the skeptics say,
But I insist it's so:
The Legion of the Pioneers
Save you the "Go, man, Go!"

NEW TITLE for Col. Glenn's epic flight:
"The Outer-World's Fair."

Mortimer Topblower bought one of those Glenn postage stamps to write a letter to the fuel oil company to protest a bill that go higher than the astronaut.

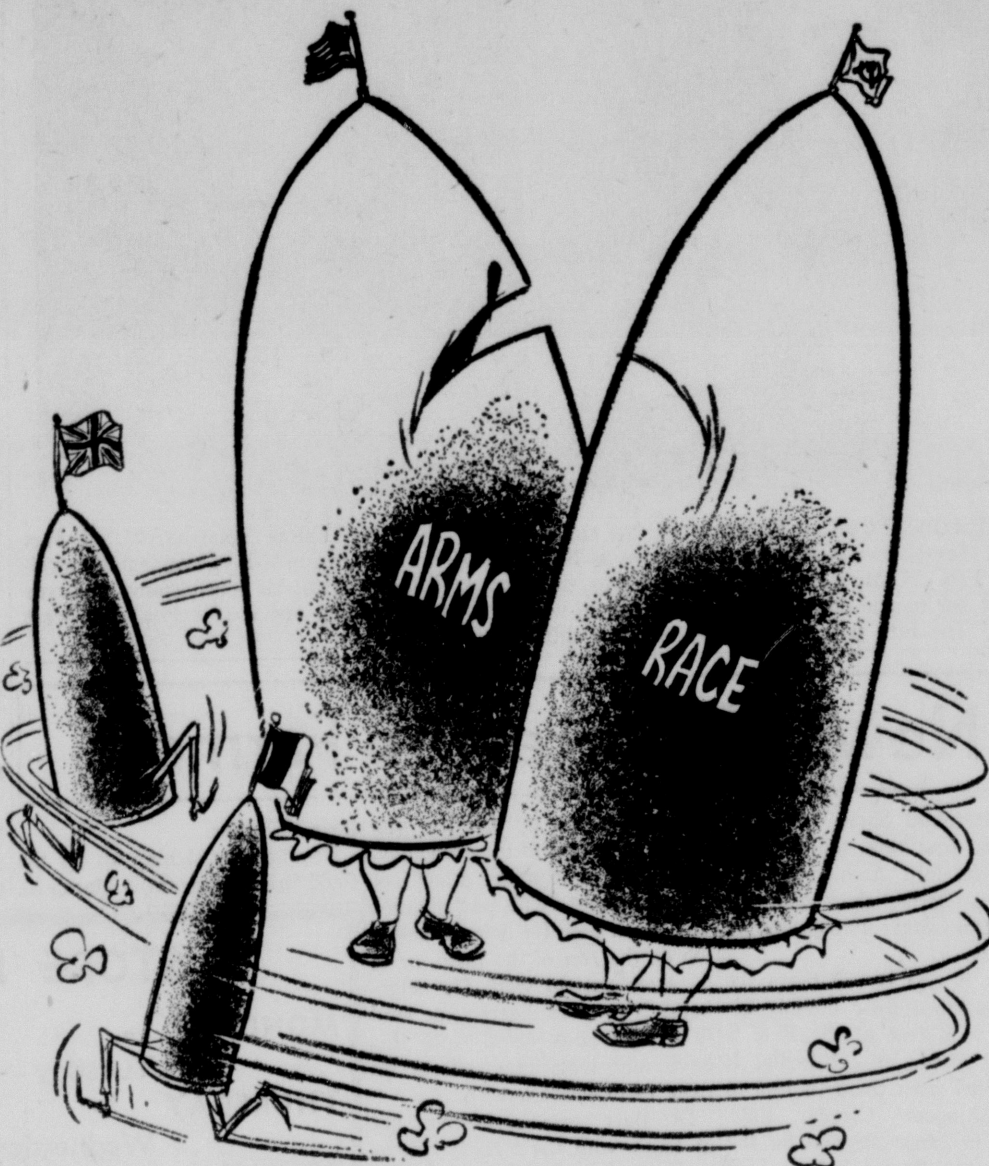

Flight that marked first step that led to astronaut was by Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk in December 1903 when one brother got plane into air for 12 seconds and few feet, with other flying only 59 seconds but keeping airborne 852 feet.

Peace Corps wants a plumber for Peru. If he brings a helper it may bring South America another financial crisis.

John Glenn's family disposed of idea that only Hollywood is capable of finding and developing genuine charm.

For first time a Broadway play, simultaneous with production, will be telecast "on the road." "Gideon" performance will be shown 225 miles from Broadway in Rochester, N.Y. This looks like revolutionary step in theater world, maybe ending the "out of town performances." But will Broadway even take a chance with the "tryouts"?

"Believe Me, I Don't Want a Large Family, Either"

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

There is a spectre stalking the White House which won't register on TV screens. And it is not Khrushchev's summitry. It's a home-made.

It's an awesome thought — a nation idling on clogged rails. But the five "ops" (unions whose members actually operate the trains) have been preparing for months. They may at the last moment switch to a selective instead of general strike.

This would mean picking a large strategic rail line in each region of the land. Each would be struck. If the stoppages lasted more than a few days, the country would slow to a walk. Depots would be jammed. Fuels and coal would stop moving. Docks would be freight logged.

These strikes could break out any time after 30 days past the date of issuance of something called the Presidential Railway Commission Report. This — the so-called featherbed findings — has been ready for some time.

IT WAS WRITTEN after well over a year of study under the X-ray minded Judge Simon Rifkind. The commission is a 15-man tri-partite board. For quite a while the labor men have asked that the report be postponed.

After these 30 days there will be nothing to stop the walkout in protest against the report, which need certain workers (by the thousands) about as much as Col. Glenn needed a leather-bound copy of "Around the World in 80 Days" as a guide book.

This eventually will mean the grim layoffs of tens of thousands of veteran railroad employees. The unions claim that employment on the lines already has been cut 60 per cent. The rail companies say it's either the layoffs or a loss of half a billion dollars a year and the end of many a line.

This crisis will make the steel showdown look like the Wright Brothers gee-whiz craft at a B-52 fly-over. Railroad men don't often strike. The last time it happened I stood alongside a president named Harry Truman and learned about language from him — not long after he first took office.

What puzzles the White House, therefore, is how to head off this one. There's always Arthur Goldberg. He has been a fabulous antidote to strike fever. But with all good medicine, a counter immunity develops.

TAKE IT for granted that the national labor leaders now are saying among themselves that Arthur Goldberg no longer really is their spokesman. He's a Cabinet member. He does not always reflect their thinking.

They don't want him always conveying their viewpoints to the President. They want to talk directly to the chief executive. They want to go back to the days when the side entrance to the White House was a revolving door to Harry Truman's and Franklin Roosevelt's inner sanctum.

They've decided to turn on the heat. That's why they called the President "timid" at their high command session in Bal Harbour.

They angered the labor secretary with their criticism of the President. Ex-labor lawyer though he is, Mr. Goldberg is known to have said some blunt words over the last weekend. These were to the effect that there are other elements in the nation, other interests and more maturity and understanding is needed from some of the labor men.

President Kennedy did not exactly grin over the high spirits exuding from the Florida AFL-CIO Executive Council and rail union sessions.

JUST WHAT he said will have to wait for his or Mr. Goldberg's memoirs. But a fair rough guess is that it added up to the White House assertion that the labor people do not have the administration or the secretary of labor or the President or Congress in their vest pockets.

Some time over the weekend Arthur Goldberg got the President of the United States and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, into a telephone conversation with each other.

But no peace formula came out of that. If the rail unions really freeze the lines as they plan, President Kennedy — as did Harry Truman — will go to Congress, or Congress to him. There could yet be a tough new law. There are other crises looming — on air-craft and missile production and in several strategic industries.

President Kennedy and Arthur Goldberg hope they can rid the White House of that spectre by opening the window. But if not, they'll nail it. When angered, they're a tough and fast moving combination.

Court Packing Again

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Kennedy Appoints Only Democrats As Judges

President Kennedy has asked the American people to believe that, in nominating 82 new federal judges, he couldn't find in the entire United States a single Republican lawyer who, in his judgment, was qualified to be on the list. By reason of legislation last year creating 73 additional judgeships and because of some existing vacancies, Mr. Kennedy will soon have filled nearly one-third of the entire federal bench — more appointments than any president heretofore has had an opportunity to make in a single term.

David Lawrence

The display of partisanship was the result of a recommendation by the President's brother, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, who managed the last presidential campaign and who, it now is being charged, awarded the judgeships on the basis of political considerations.

Another Democratic party leader, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, sought in 1937 to have the Supreme Court enlarged from nine to 15 justices because, as he told the American people, some of the justices on the court at that time held views that didn't go along with his. He wanted a majority that would outvote those with whom he disagreed. The scheme became known as "court packing," and was defeated in Congress.

"Court packing" now, however, is back in vogue on a large scale. It is embarrassing for some senators to oppose a partisan list of judges, because many of the nominations are made to curry favor with senators who want friends or political associates named to the bench.

Seventy Kennedy appointees have been confirmed already by the Senate, and probably the others will be accepted as a matter of routine. The fact that the Republicans have done this in the past does not justify it. Two wrongs do not make a right.

It is significant that Bernard G. Segal, chairman of the federal judiciary committee of the American Bar Association, has just made public a report filed with the attorney general condemning the process by which 82 Democrats were selected for the federal bench.

Adding to these the three recess appointments of the preceding administration, the qualifications of a total of 85 nominees were analyzed.

The American Bar Association committee designated seven as "not qualified." Only 14 were designated as "exceptionally well qualified," and 41 were listed as "well qualified," while 23 were referred to as "qualified."

The distinction between these classifications is one that is difficult to define but apparently even mediocre nominees are frequently called "qualified."

Unpredictable March

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) —Anybody care to join the society for the abolition of the month of March? Just mail me your membership application.

Everyone has had the experience of writing a check or letter at the start of a new year and absent-mindedly dating it the year before.

This week I pulled an even bigger mental boo-boo. On the 28th of February, I wrote a column for the next day and dated it April 1, thus omitting the 31 days of March altogether.

Getting a date wrong is to a newspaperman about as big a blunder as losing a bass fiddle is to a musician. My editorial colleagues across the country have been giving me a terrible ribbing. "How can anyone lose a whole month out of his life—particularly at your age?" they've been demanding gleefully.

When I mentioned the experience to a friend of mine who flunked psychology in college, he felt sure he had the answer.

"It is undoubtedly the result of a deep emotional blow in your childhood," he said. "Think back. Can you recall any soul-scarring emotional deprivations you suffered during the month of March when you were in kindergarten?"

"Why, yes," I replied, for if there is any period in my life for which I have total recall, it is those three formative years I spent in kindergarten.

"I was rejected by a girl named Amy, and the class bully knocked out a front tooth and took away my lollipop."

"That explains it," my friend said. "That's why you unconsciously have a grudge against March, and try to forget it."

But his theory collapsed when I pointed out that I had lost even prettier girls in kindergarten—and had other teeth knocked out and CERTAINLY the country is not getting the best qualified men or women to serve as federal judges. The big question is whether politically chosen judges will feel obligated to construe the law in ways that will carry out the policies of the Democratic administration.

In these days of "government by executive order," the politically minded appointee can play politics on the bench. He may have been a good lawyer in private practice but does this necessarily mean he will make an impartial judge?

In answer to criticism, Department of Justice officials are saying that they are merely doing what the Republican administrations did in the past — appointing more judges from their own party. But Republicans declare that the federal judiciary was unbalanced, politically speaking, during the Democratic party's occupancy of the White House from 1933 to 1953, and that President Eisenhower, by his appointments, was able to bring about for the first time in many years an equal division on the bench between the two political parties.

In other words, as Mr. Eisenhower filled vacancies with Republicans, he overcame the Democratic party advantage. Since an equal number of Republicans and Democrats was finally obtained in 1960, the argument is being made by Republican leaders that President Kennedy should have preserved the equal status instead of disturbing the balance once more.

BESIDES the 82 Democrats nominated for the federal bench and mentioned in the report of the American Bar Association, Mr. Kennedy named seven additional Democrats and one Liberal party member. Two Republicans already serving on the bench under recess appointments given them by the preceding administration were reappointed. So to date only two out of the total of 92 appointments are Republicans.

By way of consolation, Department of Justice officials are saying that there will be some Republicans named in the next batch of 43 appointments but nobody is saying how much is "some"?

Why should any judge ever be appointed by the political process of recommendation by party brethren in Congress and by local politicians?

Does this make for a judicial system of the highest integrity?

Mr. Segal, of the American Bar Association committee, says wistfully in his report:

"We continue to strive and we continue to hope intermediately for bipartisanship, eventually for the ideal of nonpartisanship."

One wonders why in these days, when the errors and immoral behavior of businesses or of some corporations or of private citizens become the subject of congressional investigation, there is no uproar at all about the immorality that envelops the scandalous method of selecting federal judges in America.

other lollipops taken away from me by the class bully—in October and May, months I prize highly.

The only reason why I can see that I forgot March this year is—it really isn't worth remembering anyway.

March is either icy or muddy, frigid or windy. It is like an adolescent unable to make up its mind. It has both feet in winter and only one hand held out to the warming spring.

March is an ambush, a pneumonia month, unpredictable and untrustworthy. Whatever kind of clothing you put on in a morning in March is likely to turn out to be the wrong kind by nightfall. Only people who enjoy all kinds of weather enjoy March—people who get a thrill out of being kicked in the stomach and patted on the back at the same time.

No wonder I forgot March? Let's don't we all forget March? Let's simply wipe it out altogether, and give 16 days more to lovely April and 15 days more to splendid September?

In any case, friends, please don't mail me any pocket calendars with the month of March circled by a blue pencil mark. I've already received enough to last me a lifetime.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Odds Are 5-1

Dear Ann: Six months ago I married a man who was divorced. His wife has custody of their four children. I gave up my two sons to marry this man. Now I am wondering if it was worth the sacrifice.

Three months ago my husband's ex-wife moved two doors from us. Her name is the same as mine so our mail is always getting mixed up. Her children walk in and out of this house as if it were their own. They go into the refrigerator and help themselves whenever they feel like it.

When I told my husband I didn't approve of this he snapped, "Why not? They are MY kids and I want them to feel at home here."

Last week he spent two evenings over there. He said he was re-papering a couple of rooms. I've been trying to get him to paint our kitchen for ages but he never has time.

I hate to admit it, but I see dangerous storm clouds gathering. What can I do? — DEPRESSED PLENTY.

Dear Depressed: I wish I could give you some encouragement but I'm afraid you're fighting a losing battle. The

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter's boy friend is a young man who has good character and a pleasing personality. My husband continually is making remarks about him because he "smells too darned good," to put it in his language.

I don't know whether it's the young man's after-shave lotion, his hair tonic or a cologne. Whatever it is, I like it and so does my daughter.

The last young man who used to hang around here worked with animals and he smelled like a horse, so this is quite an improvement. My husband keeps insisting that any guy who smells this good has got to be a sissy.

What is your opinion? — QUINTESSENCE.

Dear Quint: I say three cheers for Mr. Smellwell. I am heartily in favor of a pleasant scent for all people — males included. It matters not whether the scent is after shave, hair tonic or cologne.

There is nothing sissyish about a man who takes the time and effort to be fastidious. In fact, some bright men have discovered that they can win by a nose.

Four Indictments So Far

Justice Dept. Has Its Woes Nailing 40 Crime Kingpins

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Justice Department is getting some bad breaks in its drive against 40 kingpins of crime on whom Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy has set his sights.

The department has set out to get these men on the theory they bankroll much of the American underworld. Kennedy and his aides believe that tying the hands of these 40 would be a blow to all organized crime.

In the past year, only four of the 40 have been indicted. Worse yet, Justice men say wryly, these four have been "lesser" men in the barrel. The department hasn't yet indicted any of the top men. But great amounts of evidence on the 40 have been funneled into the Justice Department from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Internal Revenue Service and other government agencies in a cooperative effort to nail these men.

Key department experts believe the four men indicted unfortunately will not be too difficult for the underworld to replace if the courts send them to prison. The four indictments since the drive began are the following:

1. On Dec. 21, 1961, a federal grand jury in Covington, Ky., indicted Frank "Screw" Andrews, 51, and some of the key men who work under him, on evidence supplied by the Internal Revenue Service and the F.B.I. Justice Department men say Andrews is one of the major numbers and rackets lieutenants in the Cincinnati, Newport and Covington, Ky., area.

2. On Oct. 30, 1961, a federal grand jury in New Orleans indicted Carlos Marcello, age 51, on evidence gathered by the F.B.I. In testimony before a Congressional committee several years ago, Marcello was called the most powerful and most influential rackets boss in Louisiana. His influence was said to have reached into Mississippi and elsewhere in the southeast United States. Recent reports, however, indicate his influence has waned considerably.

3. On Dec. 7, 1961, a federal grand jury in Manhattan indicted Tony "Ducks" Corallo, 47, on evidence gathered by the F.B.I. Justice Department men rate Corallo, a former Teamster official, an important lieutenant in New York labor racketeering.

4. On June 27, 1961, a federal grand jury in New Orleans indicted Benjamin "Porky" Lassoff, 53, on evidence gathered by the Internal Revenue Service and the F.B.I. Justice Department men say Lassoff is connected with a nationwide system of "layoff" betting covering activities as far flung as Newport, Ky.; New Orleans; Biloxi, Miss.; Miami; Atlantic City, N.J.; Las Vegas; Los Angeles; Chicago and New York. Layoff betting is the betting a gambling operator does to hedge the bets laid with him.

CARLOS MARCELLO

The conviction record thus far has been even more disappointing to the Justice men. It's not that none of the above four has been convicted, for the question of their guilt is still before the courts. But sentences of a number of lesser lights in the organized crime and racket rings indicted in the past year have been surprisingly light.

But department men admit that even convicting the 40 won't end the problem. Other "kingpins" will take their places. So the job must be continual harassment, year after year. When these 40 are taken care of, then get the new 35 or 50 or 70 who take their places. One of the major attempts in the present drive is to get the chief lieutenants along with the top men. That aims at possible successors.

But one Justice man wryly says, "The job will never be finished."

Nixon Attacks John Birch Society

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a candidate for governor of California, is making his strongest attack against the John Birch Society and its leader, Robert Welch.

At a news conference, Nixon urged fellow Republicans Thursday to quit the ultra-conservative organization because Welch won't "Welch," he said, "is the Birch Society."

Describing the former candimaker as dictatorial and anti-Republican, Nixon said he would not endorse any Republican candidate who does not "make the choice between Dwight Eisenhower and Robert Welch."

This was an apparent reference to statements attributed to Welch calling Eisenhower "a dedicated conscious agent of the Communist conspiracy."

Nixon said he gave these views in a closed session to a California Republican Assembly subcommittee, which backed him for governor by a 34-25 vote over State Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell of Los Angeles. The CRA is an unofficial party organization.

TOO MANY STATIONS

CLEVELAND (AP)—A gasoline price battle in suburban Bedford is the result of too many stations in the area, according to James Cresente, executive director of the Northern Ohio Petroleum Retailers Association.

He visited the area Thursday and found a private brand station had cut its price to 28.9 cents a gallon of regular gasoline. Five other stations then dropped their price to that figure or a cent higher. Cresente predicted prices would rise again to around 31.9 cents a gallon, cost of a gallon of regular gas at most Cleveland stations.

Crash

denly and with such sickening fury that the pilot never had a chance to radio that he was in trouble.

There was no flame, no smoke, no trailing exhaust, no outward indication of damage.

It all happened so quickly that friends and relatives of the passengers had not yet had a chance to leave the airport before the plane carrying their loved ones made its disastrous dive only three miles away.

A Mohawk Air Lines plane bound for upstate New York followed the doomed jet from the runway, and its passengers got a ghastly, bird's-eye view of the tragedy.

Here is how one of them, Joseph F. Farano of New York, described it:

"The jet made a beautiful take-off, and then it happened. It was as if something reached up from the earth, grabbed its nose and pulled it down. The plane crashed perfectly perpendicularly, making a terrific splash as it plowed into the muddy swamp."

The terrific splash—a 200-foot geyser—was the result of the 650-degree-hot engines hitting the icy water. The plane disintegrated instantly, scattering its twisted remains over a mile-round area. Pieces of the plane burned and sent up smoke plumes.

Top federal investigators who flew here at the express order of President Kennedy hoped to retrieve the jet's flight control box from the murky water of Jamaica Bay.

This device, a small, yellow metal globe about the size of a basketball, carries a recording of the plane's height, speed and other data which the investigators hope will give them a clue to the cause of the tragedy.

FAA Administrator Najeeb Halaby, who flew here along with half a dozen air safety specialists from the Civil Aeronautics Board, emphasized there was no indication of what might have gone wrong.

Total weight was under the allowable limit and none of the four jets had been run over the allowable time, Halaby said.

When the plane arrived here from Tulsa, Okla. Wednesday, the crew had reported some trouble with the radio and cabin pressure system, but this was corrected.

Halaby said a checkback on the previous 10 pages in the jet's logbook disclosed no uncorrected defects, and thus far there has been no indication of malfunctioning.

CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd, who also flew to the wreck scene, said the mystery might be solved in a month. But he added that it could take as long as a year.

While seeking the flight control box, hundreds of police, firemen and Naval personnel from the nearby Floyd Bennett Naval Air Station grappled for the mutilated bodies of the victims.

The grappling continued through the night and morning amid shifting tides, and the grim searchers had recovered 52 bodies by early today.

The plane carried 87 passengers and a crew of 8.

Among the passengers was W. Alton Jones, 71, executive committee chairman of the Cities Service Co., who was on his way to California for a fishing trip with an old friend—former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower, wintering at Palm Desert, Calif., was described as shocked and saddened at the tragedy.

All Are Mourned
And there were others, including the not-so-well-known and the simple folk who are mourned as much as the great.

Behind them they left husbands and wives and children and brothers and sisters and friends—all of them made desolate in one instant of unhappy destiny.

Here is the timetable of disaster:

At 10:07 a.m., the huge craft rolled along the 14,000-foot runway, broke ground after 5,000 feet and took off.

The plane cleared a train trestle and a parkway in its ascent—all normal, all according to established pattern.

At 800 feet, Capt. James T. S. Heist, 56—a veteran of 18,300 hours in the air—made the prescribed left turn of 20 degrees to head away from possible LaGuardia Airport traffic and the Ozone Park section of Queens. He pointed his craft toward Brooklyn.

Then it happened.
Like a dive bomber, the airliner suddenly plunged straight down.

Off-duty policeman Arthur Rudick saw it as he drove on Cross Bay boulevard. Others saw it too, and they made for the bay's shoreline.

Within minutes, rescue teams and rescue apparatus clogged the one-road approach to the disaster scene.

But, as Rudick later observed, "There was no one to rescue."

Then came the grim task of grappling for the bodies, a job that continued through the winter night.

Berlin

been prompted by U.S. guards delaying a Soviet car Thursday.

A car carrying Soviet personnel to the Berlin Air Safety Center operated by the four occupying powers in West Berlin passed through "Checkpoint Charlie," without a hitch this morning.

There was no explanation why the Soviets waited so long before reacting to the American travel ban on Col. Solovyev.

Tests

said, that there is still opportunity to agree quickly on a nuclear test ban treaty but such agreement would require a reversal in Soviet policy on the inspection issue.

Officials expected that Kennedy would emphasize this opportunity in his broadcast address and perhaps in other ways urge Soviet Premier Khrushchev to reconsider his position and tackle anew the problem of test ban negotiations.

The heart of the issue is that the United States and Britain assert any acceptable test ban treaty must provide an international inspection system to prevent cheating. The last Soviet proposal made to the Western powers at Geneva late last year called for national inspection systems, which the United States and Britain denounced as unreliable "self inspection."

The White House itself gave no advance hints of the content of the President's speech and there was some suggestion in official quarters that it might contain surprise elements. Throughout the government officials were under instruction not to discuss it.

However, the core of the President's argument concerning a Western need to test was stated recently by him at several news conferences.

He has said that the Soviets broke a three-year moratorium with a test series starting last September and there was danger of major Soviet gains in nuclear weapons if the Soviet Union holds another test series.

Shortly after Thursday night's White House announcement of Kennedy's speech plans, the Atomic Energy Commission disclosed that a low-yield British nuclear device had been tested underground at the AEC's Nevada test site.

An AEC announcement described the test as conducted jointly by the United States and Britain and described the blast as low yield, meaning an explosive power of less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

The United States and Britain have agreed that British scientists could use the Nevada site and the United States could use British-held Christmas Island in the Pacific for test sites.

A procession of top-level officials appeared at the White House Thursday evening, but the press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said the calls were not related to Kennedy's broadcast.

What Makes OSU's Cage Team One Of Greatest Ever?

Home-Grown Talent, Respect For Each Other Play Big Role

By CHUCK SUCH
Brush Moore Special Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio—What makes Ohio State one of the nation's greatest college basketball teams in history?

Coach Fred Taylor of the Buckeyes provided the answer and each reason carried an impact. Taylor bypassed the obvious athletic talent involved in the phenomenal success story.

"Great respect for each other. That's what makes this a great team," the youthful-looking Ohio State coach stated.

"This also is an exceptional ball club. The players are all exceptional students."

"Four of our starting five have grades which average more than 3.0 out of a possible 4.0. The cumulative average for the entire squad is 2.9 and that's above the average for the entire male student body at the university," Taylor continued.

The average for the entire OSU male student body is 2.6.

"THIS TEAM is unusual in that it is comprised of a group of highly intelligent young men and also because they are very serious," another university spokesman said.

"There are no jokers, no pranks on this team. It's unique in that way."

Taylor himself sets the tempo. He's all business.

"On a trip, the players all take their books with them—and they use them," a spokesman said.

Jerry Lucas and John Havlicek (team captain) are most studious.

Havlicek, who hails from Lansing, Ohio, has a classroom average better than 3.0.

Liston Snorts At Offer For Title Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Sonny Liston, clamoring for a shot at heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson for 10, these many months, has turned thumbs down on a parlay of the champion and a payday ranging from $200,000 to about $700,000.

"Ridiculous," the heavy-fisted challenger snorted of promoter Tom Bolan's offer Thursday. The offer included a $200,000 minimum guarantee which Bolan called the highest ever offered a challenger.

Later, however, a source close to Liston who declined to be quoted by name, said Liston's refusal stemmed from difficulties surrounding a return bout clause in the agreement.

Liston himself said he objected to Patterson's right, under Bolan's offer, to call the shots in the second fight if a return was necessary.

"They want to name the site, promoter, everything," Liston said.

"A challenger cannot be permitted to price himself out of the market," said Dr. Charles P. Larsen, National Boxing Association president, in Tacoma, Wash.

He said by refusing the fight, Liston could be removed as the leading contender.

Patterson and his manager, Cus D'Amato, were not available for comment.

Ohio Conference Cage Playoffs Resume Tonight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Semi-final games in the third annual Ohio Conference basketball tournament are scheduled tonight at Akron and Capital Universities.

At Capital, Wittenberg (17-4) plays Muskingum (13-8). Wittenberg won both previous tournaments and is defending small college CAA champion.

Baldwin-Wallace (15-12) meets Akron (17-5) at Akron. The winners will play Saturday at Akron, with a berth in the CAA small college regional tournament at stake. The regional will be March 9-10, also at Akron, with the Ohio Conference winner meeting Gannon College (16-7) of Erie, Pa., and Youngstown (15-11) playing Florida A & M (25-0).

and baseball player, doesn't know how to go about anything with ease.

"John even hustles in warmup drills," Taylor commented.

The 6-foot-5, 205-pound Havlicek is a physical education major. He wants to be a coach. However, his immediate plans are not set.

Drafted by the professional football Cleveland Browns, the outstanding athlete said he prefers professional basketball.

"But I'd like to play in the NBA," Havlicek revealed. "I like basketball better than any other sport. Of course, I'd give pro football a try. You can always adjust and it's the right opportunity that counts."

"But I haven't played football since I was in high school — four years ago. Nevertheless, I'd sure give football a try if things don't work out in basketball for me."

HAVLICEK ALSO is a promising baseball pitcher with professional possibilities.

He said he'll decide on his future after the basketball season is completed.

Lucas and Havlicek are alike in many ways. Both are mature for their ages. Both are serious. Both are talented.

The remainder of the squad fits about the same pattern.

There's also one other important factor which makes Ohio State unique in college circles.

The starting five and the coach are all natives of Ohio—home-grown talent.

IN FACT, only one member of the squad — Don Flatt of Brooklyn, N.Y. — is not an Ohio product.

Lucas, as no one needs reminding, hails from Middletown. Havlicek, of course, is from Lansing.

Melvin Nowell, 6-foot-2 senior guard, is a Columbus product.

Dick Reasbeck, 6-foot junior guard, is from Martins Ferry.

Douglas McDonald, 6-foot-5 junior forward, hails from Fostoria.

Taylor is a native of Zanesville.

HOW DID Ohio State suddenly become a national basketball power?

Taylor didn't point to Lucas as might be expected.

"All of the ingredients suddenly became available," the Ohio State coach began. "First, we build a beautiful new arena and it now gives us a nice place to play our games. We got some good boys and the interest grew with all the facilities."

How much does Lucas mean to the team?

"How much fear does he put in our opponents?" Taylor replied with a question.

"WE DON'T KNOW exactly how much he does mean to our team. We do know it's comforting to have the player with the top shooting percentage in the Big Ten. We know how WE adjust our defenses to counter an outstanding shooter."

"It's also comforting to know that we have a player who is just about the top rebounder in the Big Ten. Lucas does all this by averaging only 33 minutes of playing time per game," Taylor added.

TAYLOR ADMITTED there times he would like to see Lucas shoot more.

"But the fact that he doesn't shoot more also works in the team's favor. The opponents don't know when he is going to shoot. Consequently, it probably helps our offense."

"Lucas has been taking an average of 13 shots per game and sinking 65 per cent. That speaks for itself. But it's been his rebounding which has really helped this club."

"It's most comforting to our outside shooters to know that when they shoot, it won't be a one-shot affair. They know Lucas is under that basket and it has done marvels for their confidence."

CAPTAIN AND COACH — John (Hondo) Havlicek, senior forward and captain of the Buckeye cagers, talks over a newspaper story with Coach Fred Taylor during a free moment at Ohio State University's St. John Arena. Havlicek, a 6-foot-5, 205-pounder from Lansing, O., is a two-year letterman. He has scored 367 points in OSU's 21 straight victories (through Monday, Feb. 26) for a 17.4 average.

Tigers Sweeten Offer To Rocky

Casey Blinks At Mets Possible Starting Nine

By The Associated Press

The last time Casey Stengel jotted down an official lineup, before the Yankee front office decided his advancing age called for a change, he scribbled: Richardson 2b, Kubek ss, Harris rf, Mantle cf, Berra lf, Skowron lb, Blanchard c, Boyer 3b and Ditmar p.

That was for the seventh game of the 1960 World Series with Pittsburgh, and Stengel must have been thinking back to that date in October 18 months ago when he wrote a lineup again Thursday.

It read: Ashburn cf, Zimmer 3b, Bell rf, Thomas lf, Marshall lb, Mantilla ss, Lepcio 2b, Landrith c, and Craig p.

The lineup, the No. 1 team for Stengel's new New York Mets' first intrasquad game today, will be amended shortly to get Gil Hodges in at first base and Charlie Neal at second. But it still indicates the kind of a job Stengel has ahead of him in his return to baseball after a season on the sidelines.

"You need experience to get a team like this going," Stengel said the other day. Patience probably will help too.

The Detroit Tigers have sweetened their offer to Rocky Colavito and the slugger is close to ending his holdout.

"We're much closer, but we haven't reached an agreement yet," said Vice President Rick Ferrell after speaking to Colavito via long distance in Richmond, Va., Thursday night. "We cussed and discussed for about 30 minutes."

With Rocky en route by car from his home in Temple, Pa., to the Tigers' Lakeland, Fla., training base, Detroit veep Rick Ferrell said: "I see where Colavito said he was swinging a lead bat to keep in shape. Well, he sure swung one in 1960 when he hit .249." Colavito, who perked up to .290 with 45 homers last season, wants at least a $15,000 raise over his 1961 salary of $35,000.

Blasts Westville 79-48

Stamping Advances Into 'A' Loop Lead

Salem Stamping moved into undisputed possession of first place in the second round of play in the City Class A Basketball League on a 5-0 mark, while Old Dutch (4-0) handed Orsburn's Market its first loss in five starts in action Thursday night on the Memorial Building hardwood.

Stamping blasted Westville (1-3) by a 79-48 count, and Old Dutch, the first round champion upended Orsburn's 73-66. In the other tilt on last night's three-game card, Bricker & Bricker continued undefeated (4-0) with a lopsided victory over Damascus, (0-5) 94-44.

Led by Bill Pauline's 30 points, Stamping had little trouble with Westville as it posted quarter leads of 16-7, 35-17, 49-34. Also high for the winners was Fred Ackerman with 18 markers and Ray Esterly with 10.

Ed Votaw was top scorer for the losers with 15 tallies, while teammate George Applegate meshed 10.

Old Dutch broke out on top in both the first and second quarters by scores of 19-14 and 37-34, but a tough Orsburn's quintet took the lead 52-49 heading into the last frame. The losers were hampered in the final stanza when two of their top players, Carson McNeely and Dick Youngpeter, fouled out.

League leading scorer Ed Daugherty again paced the winners with 30 points, with teammates Ron Wyss and John Sturgeon each dumping in 10 counters. Four Orsburn starters hit in double figures. Jim Summer led the parade with 23 points, followed by Ferg Wilson with 13 and Youngpeter and Sonny Bowman with 11 apiece.

Brickers continued in the thick of the race with the easy win over hapless Damascus. The winners jumped out into a 16-6 lead after one quarter and then piled it on 40-16 at halftime and 64-22 after three periods.

Dean Nicholson's 24 markers was high among the five Brickers quintet that hit in double digits. Bob Adams added 20, Clyde Shoff 13, Jack Dowd 17, and Chuck Foust 12. Tom Baxter tallied over half his team's points as he poured through 26 for Damascus.

INTRODUCING THE BIG

DODGE CUSTOM 880

NEW FROM DODGE!!

CUSTOM-MADE FOR THE BIG CAR MAN. The new Dodge Custom 880 is a big automobile. No pretense. No half-measures. It offers the comfort and sense of well-being that only a large car can give you. It has been made for one reason. To satisfy, without compromise, the needs and demands of the big car man.

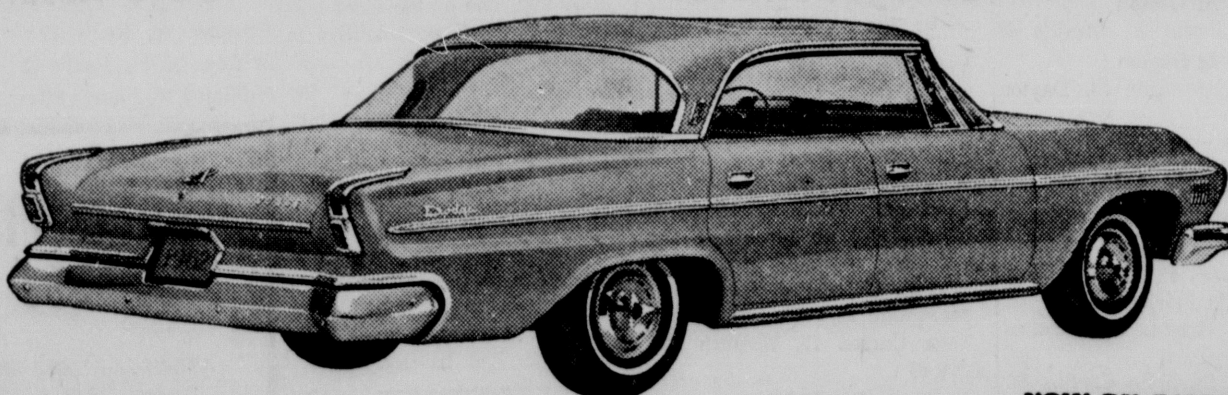

As we have stated, the new Dodge Custom 880 is big. Wheelbase is 122 inches. Overall length almost 18 feet. There's an abundance of room for six adults. The trunk is 33 cubic feet. Mammoth by any standards.

The Custom 880 is powered by a 361 cubic inch V8 which will develop 265 horsepower. It is very hot. It is also satisfyingly economical. This same engine got 20.0 miles to the gallon when it won its class in last year's Mobilgas Economy Run.

The car handles beautifully. Its long wheelbase and perfectly balanced Torsion-Bar suspension system provide a stable, smooth ride. The body, of course, is rustproofed. The brakes are extremely large, as you should expect in a car of its size. And you can drive thirty-two thousand miles between grease jobs.

The new Dodge Custom 880 is now on display at your dependable Dodge Dealer's. The model pictured is a four-door hardtop. Other models include a four-door sedan, a two-door hardtop, six- or nine-passenger wagons, and a convertible. All custom-made for the big car man.
